

COME TO DISNEYSCHOOLER'S THIRD ANNUAL

HOMESCHOOL DAY AT DISNEYLAND!

Friday, February 27, 2009

Don't miss the group photo!
Be in front of the castle at 2:00pm sharp!

Thanks to everyone who made last year's event so successful!
We had an amazing turnout!

Were you there last year?

Homeschoolers and all families using alternative education are welcome to come to Disneyland for the second annual (un)Official Homeschool Day, held at Disneyland and Disney's California Adventure!

HERE'S HOW IT WORKS:

You get your own ticket to the theme park. You provide your own transportation. Wear Tie-Dye (a t-shirt, a hat, a scarf, shoe strings, a lanyard... any tie-dyed item). You will find other participants throughout the park by looking for their tie-dye! We meet up at 2pm for the group photo.

This is so fun that the activities will actually be starting February 26th and continuing on the 27th:

- Field trips
- Character breakfast
- Scavenger hunt
- Several meet-ups!

For more information, visit HomeschoolDay.com